Emily K. Wirth was born and raised in Punxsutawney, Pennsylvania. Feel free to ask her all about Ground Hog Day. After earning her Master of Science degree in Biology from the Edinboro University of Pennsylvania, she began working for the University of Florida, where she wrestled alligators in the Everglades. Emily joined the CEHMM team in 2011 as a Wildlife Biologist. She then took the reins to create a new division within CEHMM and develop the Environmental Services Program. While working as the Project Manager of the new program, she was offered the Operations Manager position. Having a thorough understanding of every aspect of CEHMM, it was obvious she was by far the best candidate to fill the role as Executive Director when the previous director retired. Emily has over ten years of experience in wildlife research and conservation and more than seven years of NEPA experience. Emily and her husband, Kevin, have two beautiful daughters.
